

Site Information

Recommended Trail Users

All trails are limited to non-motorized users.

Camping

Primitive dispersed camping is allowed only in Zone 4 and at least 25 feet from designated trails and 200 yards from cultural sites.

Campfires

Campfires are permitted only in Zone 4, but discouraged. Use existing fire rings when possible and/or chose a durable site. Fire restrictions may apply at anytime.

Designated Trails

The desert environment is fragile. Use only trails that are signed and marked as shown on this brochure.

Gates

Leave gates as you find them. If open, leave open. If closed, leave closed.

Livestock

Grazing occurs on public lands. Watch for and avoid livestock. Do not harass. Slow down and let them get out of the way.

Permits

Permits are required from BLM for commercial activities and group events on public lands.

Private Property

No recreational uses are authorized on private lands by BLM. Permission to enter private lands is at the discretion of the landowner.

Trail Etiquette

Bicyclists must yield to equestrians and hikers. Hikers must yield to equestrians.

Trailheads

Park only at trailheads. Information on Zones, land ownership, and other features is available on-line.

Trash

There is no trash collection in the area. Do not burn, bury, or put trash in toilets. Please use the "Pack It In - Pack It Out" ethic.

Emergencies

Call 911 for life threatening emergencies. For search and rescue assistance and other law enforcement issues call Washington County Sheriff (435) 634-5730.

Public Lands Managed in Partnership with Local Communities

Welcome

Santa Clara River Reserve is located in southern Utah's desert environment. Comprised of 6,500 acres of public lands administered by the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), the Reserve protects open space, archaeological and natural resources, and recreational opportunities important to local communities.

Contained within the Reserve is the 1,645 acre Santa Clara/Land Hill Area of Critical Environment Concern, which contains numerous prehistoric sites and vital riparian habitat. The Reserve is also home to many plant and animal species unique to the Mojave Desert. BLM, together with the cities of Ivins and Santa Clara, developed management strategies that allow for visitor experiences while protecting these valuable resources.

Numerous trails in the Reserve take visitors to evidence of prehistoric Ancestral Puebloan and Southern Paiute cultures, rich riparian areas, and scenic vistas. Please respect and appreciate this special public use area.

Take It Outside

- Shoot a Camera
Photograph petroglyphs, native plants, and scenic desert vistas.
- Pick Up Your Binoculars
Look for raptors such as the red-tailed hawk and golden eagle as well as migratory birds.
- Take a Hike
Wander along the shady Santa Clara River; visit prehistoric archaeological sites; or explore the more isolated backcountry.
- Ride a Bike
Ride mountain bike trails that require intermediate riding skills (most trails are rated More Difficult).
- Saddle Your Horse
The Tukupetsi Trailhead will accommodate small horse trailers.

Protect Cultural Resources

These public lands illuminate our nation's heritage—from ancient Native American campsites, to the homes of pioneer settlers. But our cultural resources are at risk from theft and vandalism, natural deterioration, and accidental damage by visitors.

Please remember that taking artifacts is illegal. Observe, sketch, or photograph objects of interest, but leave them undisturbed.

Trail Markers

Trails open for use are designated by markers as shown on the right. All trail intersections are signed. Some reassurance markers can be found along the trails. Note that trails in the Reserve segregate non-compatible user groups. Please stay on designated trails and use only those trails marked for your specific user group.
